Kick-off for new urban development at Bridge District

This time, the city's often-used, ceremonial golden shovel made the trip to Raley Field.

The occasion on Sept. 20 was the beginning of construction for one phase of development in the city's Bridge District, spanning the riverfront between the freeway and Tower Bridge. Jointly planned by the city and local landowners, the Bridge District aims to become a neighborhood with "parks, walking paths, access to employment centers and great vistas," Mayor Christopher Cabaldon told the invited crowd.

City officials say that the "smart growth" project includes $50 million from a variety of public funding sources and $150 committed from private sources to help rework the former aging industrial area.

By 2014 the district will see over 700 housing units at the site, "ranging from elegant eco-design to affordable housing," said a city press release.

The district's location across from the capital is key, Cabaldon said.

"The Bridge District is only 90 minutes from Lake Tahoe and 60 minutes from Napa, and it's just seconds away from Whitey's Jolly Kone and their peach shakes," he quipped. "Reclaiming this place on the riverfront edge is quite clearly our manifest destiny."

King-sized promotion

Representatives of the Sacramento Kings joined Mayor Christopher Cabaldon and CalSTRS officials with the unveiling of a dramatic new Kings banner visible to motorists on I-5 in Sacramento. The solar-powered banner promotes the Kings and their new slogan, "Here We Rise," on the side of the office building.

MEET THE CANDIDATES:

Every election season, the News-Ledger invites all candidates for local office to sit down for an interview, to help voters get to know them better. This week, the tradition returns, with this interview of city council candidate Ed Hensley. Candidate interviews will continue in the coming weeks.

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

As a candidate for the West Sacramento City Council, Ed Hensley is a newcomer. But he and his family name are well-known to a lot of old-time West Sacramentans.

The family is associated with law enforcement: Ed Hensley retired as a local police sergeant, one of his brothers retired as a W.S.P.D. lieutenant, and another as a captain in the C.H.P. Ed's son is now a West Sacramento police detective.

Then there are Ed's parents, the late Roland and Jewell Hensley. They were well-known through a couple of local businesses, and Roland at one time served on the city council here – a feat Ed hopes to replicate.

"I talked to him a lot and helped him with some of the information," says Ed of his father's council term. "I think I got an insight into what a councilmember does."

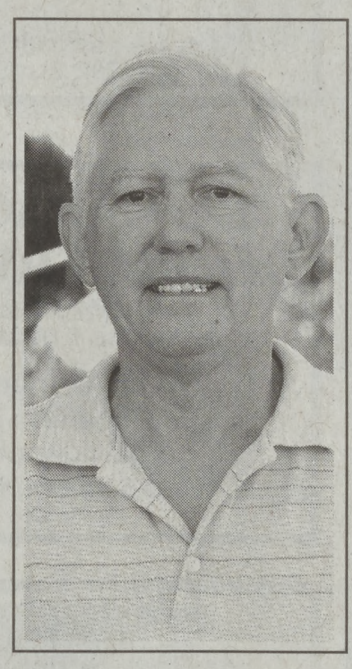
But mostly, it's Hensley's time in the community (he's been in town since 1957) and his experience as a police officer that qualify him to help lead the city, he said.

"In my police work, I've worked all over the city," Hensley told the News-Ledger. "I've attended numerous community meetings, and I've had to solve problems all over the community, so I have a good understanding of the city."

Says an Ed Hensley campaign brochure: "I'm your neighbor next door, please vote for me."

Hensley, 58, is married and lives in Southport. He's a member of the local horse riding group, the West Sacramento Trail Riders Association. Although he says he has some concerns about a number of city issues, Hensley is not running a campaign of "revolution" against the current city council.

"I think they're governing effectively," he said of the council and mayor. "I'm not running against anybody or anything. There's an opening on the council, and I think with my experience and qualifications, I'd be effective. . . We just need to let the people decide which two of the three of us they want on the council."



"I'm not running against anybody or anything. There's an opening on the council, and I think with my experience and qualifications, I'd be effective. . . We just need to let the people decide which two of the three of us they want on the council."

Opponents on the fall ballot are incumbent Mark Johannessen and challenger Christopher Ledesma; another incumbent, Wes Beers, will step down from his seat to create a second contested seat.

Hensley told the News-Ledger he has concerns on a lot of local issues, but believes the city is basically on a positive track – and the city council is handling the current budget crunch pretty well.

"I think they're doing a lot of good things," he commented. "I like the Bridge District project. I'm a little concerned about the densities in Southport if we continue to build out there without solving the traffic problem."

Hensley said that traffic problem seems to be on a lot of his neighbors' minds.

"I have heard a lot of people complaining about the train blocking Jefferson, especially during commute time. I'd like to talk to them about getting them to do that not at commute times, or re-routing it. Also, we increased the (planned) densities in Southport, and I'm wondering if that's the best way to go. I'd like to talk to some people and see if that's really the best way to go. . . If we do get that new bridge across Broadway or Sutterville, that may help a little bit."

What about the argument that more homes are needed in Southport in order to help share the cost of improving flood protection for the people already living here?

"I don't know if it's necessary to have more high density to pay for it," he answered. But the city is "on the right track" in upgrading its flood protection.

"They've raised the funds

Earlier deadline for classified ads

The News-Ledger now has an earlier deadline for classified ads, such as those on page 10 of this edition.

Classified ads are now due on the preceding Friday at 5 p.m.

For many years, our deadline for these brief ads was after the weekend, at 5 p.m. on Monday.

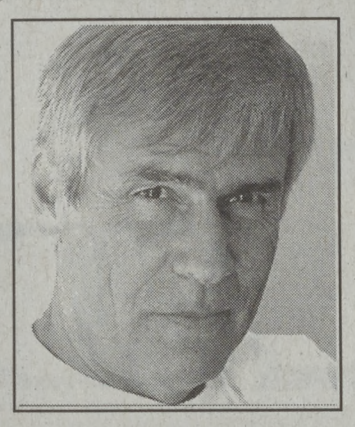
Changes in the way the U.S. Postal Service requires us to mail our newspapers to subscribers have caused us to go to print earlier. This means we can no longer offer a late deadline for classified ads, which include "for sale" items, "help wanted," "garage sales" and other items.

The deadline will now be 5 p.m. on the prior Friday, just like all other ad and news submissions.

For more information, see the box on page two.

Where did all those old sayings come from?

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

Over the weekend, a friend and I were talking when he suddenly said, "Aren't we having ourselves a wonderful Indian summer?"

"Now where do you think that term actually came from?" I asked him with interest.

"How would I know?"came the reply.

"I mean, do you think there was once a bunch of Indians sitting around a campfire really enjoying some great weather late in the year and they just decided to name it after them?"

"Why do you do that?" my friend asked me.

"Do what?"

"Ask really stupid questions?"

"Actually," I said in my defense, "I'm usually fairly pleased with the questions I ask – it's the answers I come up with that are sometimes pretty stupid."

Anyway, later that evening, still wondering how the term "Indian summer" originated, I turned on my trusty computer and went in search of an answer, which turned out to be the following:

An Indian summer is a meteorological phenomenon that occurs in autumn in the Northern Hemisphere that is characterized by a period of sunny, warm weather, after the leaves have turned following an onset of frost, but before the first snowfall. The expression has been used for more than two centuries and most likely originated from raids on European colonies by Indian war parties; these raids usually ended in autumn, hence the extension to summer-like weather in the fall as an Indian summer. It may also be so-named because this was the traditional period during which early North American Indians harvested their crops of squash and corn.

So, not only do I now know what people are actually referring to when they use the term "Indian summer", but while doing my research, I also came across the meaning of some other pretty interesting old sayings, and here are just a few examples:

Old stomping grounds: The prairie chicken was often observed by early settlers dancing around at dawn with their fancy mating steps, making noises and strutting as part of their courtship with the females. They were so intense that they actually wore some parts of the ground bare and settlers began referring to those areas as old stomping grounds.

Shindig: The term comes from the fact that many rookie square dancers used to end up swinging their feet wildly, often digging them into the shins of their partners or other dancers.

Wrong side of the bed: In the ancient world, the left-side of the body or anything "left" was considered sinister, mysterious, dangerous or evil. So innkeepers pushed the left side of the bed against the wall so that a guest had to get up on the right side of the bed.

Frog in your throat: Medieval physicians believed that the secretions of a frog could cure a cough if they were coated on the throat of the patient. The frog was placed in the mouth of the sufferer and kept there until the physician decided that the treatment was complete.

The Life of Riley: This is not just an old television show from the 1950s. Back in the 1880s an Irish comic/singer named Patrick Rooney created a song about a Mr. Reilly, who imagined what his life would be like if he hit it rich in California. The song describes his wonderful life of leisure and soon the popular tune turned Mr. Reilly and having a really easy life into one and the same thing.

The clink: It comes from the name of a very harsh prison that was once located on Clink Street in the Southwark area of London.

Son of a gun: After sailors had crossed the Atlantic to the West Indies, they would often take the native women on board their ship and have their way with them in-between the cannons. Some of the women the sailors left behind would end up having baby boys, who were then called the son of a gun.

They tied a string onto the "dead" person's hand, buried them, and tied the other end of the string to a bell and then tied that to a nearby tree branch. If the person revived enough to ring the bell, their survivors would rush out and dig them up.

Cut through the red tape: Long ago solicitors kept their clients papers in a file folder tied with red ribbon to prevent the papers from falling out. Of course, when they wanted to get at the papers, they would have to cut through the red tape.

Saved by the bell: When our ancestors realized they were burying a great number of people before they were completely dead, they came up with a solution. They tied a string onto the "dead" person's hand, buried them, and tied the other end of the string to a bell and then tied that to a nearby tree branch. If the person revived enough to ring the bell, their survivors would rush out and dig them up. Hence, they were saved by the bell. This is also thought to be the story behind the term, "dead-ringer".

Barking up the wrong tree: Settlers often hunted raccoons, possums and squirrels. Most hunting dogs would chase them up a tree and then bark until their masters came and shot the animals. Sometimes, however, the animal managed to sneak across to another tree without the dogs noticing, and their masters arrived only to find their dogs barking up the wrong tree.

Getting a square meal: Dinner plates were once a square piece of wood with a "bowl" carved out to hold a serving of the perpetual

GUEST COMMENTARY:

A home makeover:

From the City of West Sacramento

The Home Depot of West Sacramento, in partnership with the City of West Sacramento's Parks & Recreation department, completed a make-over of a home-front on N. Hobson Ave. as part of the City's Best on the Block program. The selected home was designated the Best on the Block Community House, and provided The Home Depot the opportunity to take a home in the West Sacramento area and give it a 'facelift'. In order to qualify for the project, the home owner had to lack both the physical and financial means to complete the project themselves.

In late July, employees from The Home Depot donated their time to work on the project house. The work included the replacement of a cyclone fence with a black wrought iron fence, the cutting and removal over overgrown vegetation, the installation of drought-tolerant and low-maintenance landscaping, a fresh coat of paint on the trim of the house, and a complete rebuilding of the front deck and porch. While the project took a little longer than expected, by early September the job was complete to the gratitude of homeowner Teresa Chamurro. "This project means a lot to me. I'm so thankful for all the work they did. My family is very happy. My neighbor also is very happy for me - she knows it's been hard for me to keep up my front yard and now it is easier to maintain and my home looks nice."

Jeri Donovan, a next door neighbor, when asked about the project replied, "I was just delighted! I love these old neighborhoods. Having it done really engaged the neighborhood. It brought people out of their homes and talking to one another." Apparently the benefit wasn't just aesthetic or social. "I'm guessing the improvements have increased the value of my home five or six thousand dollars or more, and in this economy it makes a huge difference," she added.

The Home Depot is committed to being a member of the community and supporting sustainable housing projects," stated Ben Lister, store manager of The Home Depot store in West Sacramento. "The Best on the Block Program enables us to help our community in ways that they might not be able to and to not only impact one home but a whole neighborhood. Over $8,000 and over 240 volunteer hours were donated by The Home Depot and its associates. "

After the project was finished councilman Oscar Villegas stopped by the Chamurro home to see first-hand the transformation. "I love these kinds of projects. Not only do they help one family, but the entire neighborhood benefits from it. This is an example of the great things that can be accomplished when the business community partners with the City." The visit also had Villegas taking a trip down memory lane. "As a kid I used to deliver the newspaper in this part of Bryte and this street was on my route. I used to swim at a friend's house right down the street. So seeing one of our neighbors getting these home improvements from our local (The) Home Depot makes this project all that much more special."

For information about the Best on the Block program, contact Parks & Recreation at parks@cityofwestsacramento.org or 617-4627, or visit www.westfun.org.

Raiders still on a roll

With a 42-0 shutout of El Dorado High on Friday, the River City varsity Raiders went to 4-0 for the season -- already exceeding the number of wins they posted all last season, when they finished with a 3-7 record.

Coach Arturo Bustamante is in his first year as head coach. He focused not on the undefeated start, but on the progress remaining to be made:

"I was bothered by the fact that we put the ball on the ground and stopped drives with penalties," said Bustamante. "We certainly won't be able to overcome those kind of mistakes this Friday against Vista del Lago. They are the favorite, along with Union Mine, to win the conference. This will clearly be the biggest win of the year for us."

The Raiders have given up only 6 points all season.

Defensive standouts on Friday included Jason and Jeremy Dunn, Kevin Stringer and safety Ron Tillman, who made a key interception.

Raider quarterback Cameron Lawrence had eight carries for 43 yards and a touchdown and went two for four in passing, for 51 yards. Halfback T.J. Soto carried nine times for 130 yards, including touchdown runs of 44 and 33 yards. Uriah Clark carried eight times for 56 yards including a touchdown. Chris Carter carried four times for 56 yards and a touchdown, receiver Joe Gonzales had two receptions for 77 yards, and quarterback Zac Marino threw for a 33-yard TD.

Historian helps mark an anniversary

Regional historian Shipley Walters (left) was the guest of honor on Sept. 19 as the West Sacramento Historical Society marked its 17th birthday, in a meeting at the city hall galleria.

Walters authored the first book on the history of this city.

At the festivities, she was presented with a proclamation from Mayor Christopher Cabaldon honoring her for her contribution to local history.

stew that was always cooking over the fire. The kettle was never actually emptied and cleaned out. New ingredients were simply added to the muck. You always took your "square" with you when you went traveling.

Blacklisted: The term goes back to British colleges where the deans had black leather bound books with the names of boys who had disciplinary issues and misdeeds.

Moron: The playwright, Moliere, created a stupid character named Moron. When the American Association for the Study of the Feeble Minded assembled in 1910, they said they didn't have a term for the type of people they worked with, so someone suggest Moron after the character in the play and it stuck.

Mind your own beeswax: This came from the days when smallpox was a regular disfigurement. Fine ladies would fill in the pocks with beeswax. However, when the weather was very warm the wax might melt. But it was not the thing to do for one lady to tell another that her makeup needed attention. Hence the sharp rebuke to "mind your own beeswax!"

Go to pot: Any farm animal that had outlived its usefulness, such as a hen who no longer laid eggs, would literally go to pot. It was cooked and eaten.

Stool pigeon: Pigeons were once a good source of meat. In order to get one, many hunters took a tame pigeon and tied it to a stool in order to attract wild pigeons. Because the pigeon that was tied to the stool was used to trap other birds, the term "stool pigeons" soon was used to represent anyone who betrays a friend.

Bikini: Named after Bikini Island in the Marshall Islands where atomic bombs were once tested, the idea being that atomic explosions and women wearing very skimpy bathing suits created much the same reaction in men.

Hunky-dory: Hunchi-dori was a major street in Yokohama that was frequented by American soldiers on leave during WWI. To be on that street meant you were enjoying "leisure activities" and having a good time.

Rule of thumb: An old English law declared that a man could not beat his wife with a stick any larger than the diameter of his thumb.

examine a range of reasonable alternatives to the proposed project that are potentially feasible. The alternatives must feasibly attain most of the objectives of the proposed project while also avoiding or substantially lessening at least one of the significant environmental effects of the proposed project. As required by NEPA, the alternatives will be evaluated at the same level of detail as the proposed project. As a result of the scoping and agency consultation efforts conducted to date, the alternatives currently proposed for evaluation in the EIR/EIS include:

% No Project Alternative. This alternative, required by both CEQA and NEPA, would evaluate the environmental impacts if the proposed project were not constructed and existing operations on the project site were to continue.

% Proposed Project. This alternative would evaluate the proposed project as described in the Project Description.

% One other alternative (to be identified). This alternative will be based on input received during the scoping process and feasible project options that could minimize or avoid significant environmental effects.

and got matching federal funds (for levee improvements). It looks like a good plan, and I'd like to continue it."

He said it is important that FEMA, the federal agency, not classify the city as too flood-prone when it completes its current reevaluation of flood dangers.

"If we wind up being considered a flood plain, that would stop all building," said Hensley.

The News-Ledger asked him about a few other local issues facing West Sacramento, including the city's plans to help build a new multi-story riverfront hotel north of the Tower Bridge. The project would use publicly-owned land, locally-issued bonds and private investors and developers.

"I really feel it's on the right track, in that we need it," said Hensley of the hotel. "It's an interesting way to go about it, but we need an anchor point there, and having a nice hotel is a good idea. The only concern I would have is would we risk losing our bond rating if it falls through."

And West Sacramento has high hopes for a local streetcar system, beginning with a connection from the civic center area through the riverfront to downtown Sacramento. The city tried, and failed, to get a $25 million federal grant this year to start construction.

"I think the trolley, at least in theory, sounds good," Hensley commented. "My concern is we seem to be counting on it happening by getting the federal funds for it. My concern is we don't have a backup plan."

Hensley is a former police officer and a resident of the southern city. What does he think of the city's gang injunction, which puts curfews and other restrictions on suspected gang members in part of the city's north?

"The way it's written, I think it was effective," Hensley said. "My real question now is whether we should take a look at it and see if it's still needed. There are so many volatile flags on both sides, as to whether it's racist or not, and I think (District Attorney Jeff Reisig) was careful to make sure it's not."

How bad does he see the city's gang problem?

"I think the people who live in the community ten(to understate it, because there were a lot of issues.'

Putting a gang injunction onto a community cre ates an "image" problem for them, he said.

"I can understand that, but at the same time, I look at some of the crimes that occurred, like the kids standing on the railroad tracks and beating up a train conductor. Things have gotten better, so my question is whether we need to continue (the injunction). I think the most important thing to do is get involved so kids don't get into gangs. I'd like to see more things like the Collings Teen Center."

"Police work, by nature, is reactive," added Hensley. "I think we need to be proactive."

Hensley and the other mayoral and council candidates plan to be at a city council candidates' forum at 7 p.m. on Tuesday at 1275 Starboard Drive. A public forum for school board candidates is scheduled for the same location, at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 6.

GO FIGURE! by Linda Thistle

COUCH THEATER DVD PREVIEWS

BY DNA SMITH

PICKS OF THE WEEK

"Beauty and the Beast" — Three-Disc Diamond Edition (G) — The enchanting story of Belle, the young daughter of an inventor who helps a cursed prince find true love is finally getting the high-def release it deserves. This three-disc set contains not only a remastered Blu-Ray disc, but also a standard DVD version of the classic Disney film. And not only do you get the remastered theatrical release, but also two additional versions of the movie: A special extended edition, plus a re-edited cut based on the original storyboards. The third disc contains so many special features. I can't even begin to list them all. Suffice to say, Disney really knocked this one out the park. You really owe it to yourself to add this to your film library.

"The Karate Kid" (PG) — I have a soft spot for the original 1984 version of "The Karate Kid," so this remake featuring Will Smith's kid really didn't do it for me. (And Jackie Chan is no Mr. Miyagi.) Although the fight choreography is flashier in this version, it wasn't enough to sway me into liking it. Anyhoo, a lot of other people really enjoyed this flick, and the DVD comes with a Justin Bieber music video, so you know, whatevs, man.

"Grindhouse" — Special Edition (R) — Finally, after three years of waiting, "Grindhouse" is being released in DVD in its proper theatrical format — complete with all the fake movie trailers — instead of being split into two separate DVD sets. This is a two-disc set, with the second disc packed with more than two hours of special features, including the fan-favorite "Robert Rodriguez's 10-Minute Cooking School." Some of the other extras: "Death Proof" gag reel, a documentary on the makeup and effects for "Planet Terror," and the extended trailer for "Werewolf Woman of the SS."

"Ken Burns: Baseball" (2010 Box Set) — This re-release of Ken Burns' epic miniseries about the history of baseball not only includes the original nine-episodes, but also the "Tenth Inning" update to the series. Included in the boxed set is an 11th disc loaded with special features. Even though I'm not a huge baseball fan, I absolutely love this documentary. Burns got the inspiration for the series while working on "The Civil War" — and it shows. "Baseball" is like a sequel to "The Civil War," showing us the history of our nation in the century and a half following the conflict by using baseball as the metaphor for our growth as a nation.

Strange BUT TRUE

• It was 20th-century French air force brigadier general and geopolitician — and bearer of the nickname "father of the French atom bomb" — Pierre Marie Gallois who made the following sage observation: "If you put tomfoolery into a computer, nothing comes out of it but tomfoolery. But this tomfoolery, having passed through a very expensive machine, is somehow ennobled and no one dares criticize it."

Organic Tomatoes Transform Dinner

Back to school means back to busy schedules for many families, but wholesome, filling dinners don't have to be a hassle thanks to convenient, delicious ingredients and flavorful recipes that the whole family will enjoy. Having a well-stocked pantry is one of the best ways I know to save time and money. Whether you're preparing a family dinner or hosting the football team, add premium ingredients like organic tomatoes, soups, pizza and pasta sauces to your back-to-school shopping list for inspired meals this fall.

Organic food is grown by farmers who use farming methods that strive for a balance with nature. Organic farmers focus on soil improvement and rely on biological systems to produce high-quality food and reduce environmental impact. The "organic" food label identifies food grown with practices that:

• Don't use synthetic pesticides, herbicides and soil fumigants.

• Don't use genetic engineering.

• Don't use sewage sludge as fertilizer.

• Do improve the quality and fertility of the soil.

• Do protect water quality.

• Do reduce soil erosion.

• Do rely on natural biological systems for pest and weed control.

• Do reduce the impact of agriculture on our environment.

• Do produce high-quality, great-tasting food.

Muir Glen organic tomato products and pasta sauces are made with fresh, premium-quality ingredients and filled with a variety of flavors. For homemade taste without the prep time, Muir Glen organic tomatoes will ensure that "What's for dinner?" always has a delicious answer. Best of all, Muir Glen organic tomatoes are picked, processed and packaged at the height of their flavor. To learn more, visit www.muirglen.com.

STUFFED CHICKEN PARMESAN

Stuffed Chicken Parmesan puts a twist on a family favorite, incorporating spinach, cream cheese, Parmesan cheese, basil and garlic inside a rolled-up chicken breast. Serve with a tossed salad and garlic bread for a complete meal, perfect for the entire team or a relaxing family evening at home.

6 boneless skinless chicken breasts (about 5 ounces each)

1 box (9 ounces) Green Giant frozen chopped spinach, thawed, well-drained
2 ounces 1/3-less-fat cream cheese (Neufchatel), softened
1/4 cup shredded Parmesan cheese
1/2 teaspoon dried basil leaves
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
1/4 cup fat-free egg product
1/2 stone-ground wheat crackers, crushed (about 1/2 cup)
1 teaspoon dried basil leaves
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 cup Muir Glen Organic Italian herb pasta sauce
1/4 cup shredded mozzarella cheese (1 ounce)

1. Heat oven to 375 F. Spray 13-by-9-inch (3-quart) glass baking dish with cooking spray. Between pieces of plastic wrap or waxed paper, place each chicken breast smooth side down; gently pound with flat side of meat mallet or rolling pin until about 1/4 inch thick.

2. In medium bowl, mix spinach, cream cheese, Parmesan cheese, 1/2 teaspoon basil and the garlic until blended. Spread about 1 tablespoon spinach mixture over each chicken breast; roll up tightly. If necessary, secure with toothpicks.

3. In small shallow bowl, place egg product. In another small shallow bowl, mix cracker crumbs, 1 teaspoon basil and pepper. Dip each chicken breast into egg product; coat with crumb mixture. Place seam-side down in baking dish.

4. Bake uncovered 20 minutes. Pour pasta sauce over chicken; sprinkle with mozzarella cheese. Bake 10 to 15 minutes longer or until thermometer inserted in center of chicken reads 165 F. Remove toothpicks from chicken before eating. Serves 6.

Health Note: Egg substitutes provide the protein from eggs but don't contain the cholesterol found in egg yolks.

How-To: To quickly thaw frozen spinach, place in colander; rinse with cool water until thawed. Drain well; squeeze dry with paper towels.

High Altitude (3,500-6,500 feet): Bake uncovered 25 minutes. Add sauce and cheese; bake 8 to 12 minutes.

If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a "Request for Special Notice" (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. Notice of Preparation/ Notice of Intent to Prepare a Joint Draft Environmental Impact Report/Environmental Impact Statement and Notice of Scoping Meeting for the West Coast Recycling Group Project

SCOPING PERIOD: September 22, 2010 through October 25, 2010

The City of West Sacramento (City) intends to prepare a joint Environmental Impact Report (EIR), and Environmental Impact Statement (EIS), consistent with the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) (Pub. Resources Code, §21000 et seq.; see also 14 CCR §15220, 15222 [State CEQA Guidelines]), and the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) (42 U.S.C. §4321 et seq.) for the West Coast Recycling Group, L.L.C. (WCRG) metal recycling facility project (proposed project). The City will be the lead agency for compliance with CEQA. In addition, the City is authorized to act as the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) "responsible entity" for the project and will be the lead agency for compliance with NEPA (see 24 Code of Federal Regulations [CFR] §58.2).

In accordance with Section 15082 of the CEQA Guidelines, the City of West Sacramento has prepared this Notice of Preparation (NOP) to inform all responsible and trustee agencies and interested parties that an EIR/EIS will be prepared. The purpose of an NOP is to provide sufficient information about the proposed project and its potential environmental impacts to allow the Governor's Office of Planning and Research (OPR), responsible and trustee agencies, and interested parties the opportunity to provide a meaningful response related to the scope and content of the EIR/EIS, including the significant environmental issues and reasonable alternatives and mitigation measures that will need to be explored in the EIR/EIS (State CEQA Guidelines, §15082[b]). Two joint CEQA/NEPA public scoping meetings will be held during the 30-day public review period to provide agencies and the public with an opportunity to provide comments on the scope and content of the EIR/EIS. Documents and files related to the proposed project are available for review at the City of West Sacramento, Community Development Department, 1110 West Capitol Avenue, West Sacramento, CA, 95691.

Scoping Meetings

DATE & TIMES: October 14, 2010, 4 p.m. to 5 p.m.; October 14, 2010, 6 p.m. to 7 p.m.

LOCATION: West Sacramento Civic Center Galleria Room 157, 1110 West Capitol Avenue, West Sacramento, CA 95691

Each meeting will last for one hour, or until all comments are heard. Persons may attend either meeting. Comments and suggestions are invited from all interested parties. Written comments or questions concerning the EIR/EIS should be directed to the City's project manager at the following address within 30 days from receipt of this notice and no later than 5:00 p.m. on October 25, 2010. All comments must include full name and address in order for staff to respond appropriately.

Project Location

The project site consists of approximately 15 acres on formerly used industrial land at 3125 Industrial Boulevard at the Port of West Sacramento (Port) within the city limits of West Sacramento in Yolo County, California. The Port is located approximately 0.5 mile south of U.S. Highway 50 and 1.25 miles west of Interstate 5, and is bounded by Industrial Boulevard to the north and east, the Sacramento Deep Water Ship Channel (SDWSC) and turning basin to the south, and Lake Washington to the west. The project site is located in the northwestern portion of the Port facility.

Project Background

WCRG is seeking a conditional use permit from the City of West Sacramento and a ground lease from the Port of West Sacramento to construct and operate a scrap metal shredding and recycling facility at the Port. Operations at the facility would include scrap metal sorting and scrap metal shredding, material separation and processing to extract usable material, and stabilization of nonmetallic material to make it useful as sanitary day cover in landfills. The vehicles that are to be shredded on-site will already have been dismantled by other companies to remove vehicle fluids, tires, batteries, and reusable parts. The facility would be a state of the art design, with modern emission controls, and an industrial stormwater system to capture and reuse rainwater.

In addition, the City of West Sacramento has applied for an over-the-counter grant from the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program administered by the California Department of Housing and Community Development Department, and funded by HUD. This grant would fund design and construction of a new main entrance to the Port located on the south side of Industrial Boulevard west of the Port's current main entrance and east of Beacon Boulevard (Exhibit 3). This new entrance would act as the vehicle access point for the WCRG project and will be evaluated as part of the EIR/EIS.

Project Description

Approximately 20% of the metal delivered for shredding at the WCRG facility will include retired automobiles or end-of-life vehicles (ELVs). However, other sources of scrap metal would also be shredded such as appliances, agricultural equipment, and industrial scrap metal (e.g., from demolition). The ELVs would be dismantled by other companies at an off-site dismantling facility or scrap yard to remove reusable parts and vehicle fluids for resale and compliance with environmental requirements. The dismantled ELVs would also be flattened at the off-site facility or scrap yard for ease of transport. The dismantled and flattened ELVs, also known as "hulks", would be transferred by truck to the proposed WCRG facility. At the proposed facility, the vehicle hulks would be processed as described below to recover recyclable materials.

Once at the metal recycling facility, ELV hulks and scrap metal would be offloaded from trucks by mobile grapple cranes and loaded onto the shredder infeed conveyer. This conveyor transports all metals and ELV hulks into the shredder assembly which reduces the automobiles and other scrap metal to fist-sized pieces. Temperature and emissions in the shredder would be controlled by water injection (about 30 gallons per minute) and other air pollution control devices discussed below. Downstream of the shredder, the processed materials would undergo material separation to segregate ferrous from non-ferrous metals and to collect non-metallic residues.

The shredder output stream would be separated into two basic streams: ferrous metal (consisting of iron and steel, excluding stainless steel) and non-ferrous material (including metals and non-metals). The separation would be achieved using drum magnets. The non-ferrous material stream would undergo separation based on the size of the material using screening equipment. The streams of different sizes of non-ferrous material would be further separated into a non-ferrous metal stream (consisting of aluminum, stainless steel, copper, brass, lead, zinc, nickel, and magnesium) and an Auto Shredder Residue (ASR) stream using a type of magnetic material separation known as "eddy current" separation. In an eddy current separator, a rapidly revolving magnetic rotor is positioned inside a non-metallic drum which rotates at a much slower speed. This arrangement produces flux variations at the surface of the drum. As conducting metallic particles are carried by a conveyor over the drum, the magnetic field passing through the particles induces current in the particles. Because the waste particles are randomly shaped, the current cannot flow within them in an orderly fashion, and the currents therefore tend to swirl or eddy around within them, creating what is referred to as an eddy current. The non-ferrous metal stream is also known as "Zorba."

The ASR stream, consisting mainly of plastics, foam, glass, carpeting, and textiles, has limited economic value but can be used as day cover in landfills to reduce airborne emissions and attractiveness to vermin. Prior to this reuse, the ASR may be stabilized by mixing it with cement or fly ash. The ferrous and non-ferrous metals recovered would be stockpiled on-site and then shipped off-site for further processing or reuse via truck, rail, or ship. Ferrous materials would leave the WCRG site primarily by ship, and ASR would be transported to landfills by truck. Zorba would be loaded into shipping containers and leave the site primarily by truck, and potentially loaded onto trains or ships at another location.

In addition, WCRG plans to purchase scrap metal (primarily ferrous) from other sources for direct resale to its customers. This could include scrap metal from industrial operations, demolition firms, railroads, or scrap dealers. These materials would not pass through the shredder. Cutting of the material may occur within the proposed facility through use of mobile shear vehicles, or less frequently through torching. The scrap metal may be bailed or placed into bins for transport.

The proposed metal recycling facility would process automobiles and scrap metals through the shredder at an average hourly throughput of 170 gross tons, with a maximum of 220 gross tons per hour. The maximum daily shredder throughput is estimated to be 1,760 gross tons per day. The monthly throughput is estimated to be 25,000 gross tons. The proposed facility would typically operate from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday, but may occasionally operate on Saturdays if significant maintenance activities are required during a weekday necessitating weekend operation to process weekday scrap metal backlog. These Saturday operations are anticipated to be fewer than 12 times per year. Maintenance repairs without shredder operation are expected up to 50 times per year.

New Port Entrance and Boating Access

The project includes design and construction of a new main Port entrance from Industrial Boulevard. The new entrance would be located west of the current main entrance at Harbor Boulevard and approximately 350 feet east of the Beacon Drive/Industrial Boulevard intersection (centerline to centerline). The new Port entrance would include crossing arms and other safety measures due to the existing and potential additional future rail crossings at this location. The new Port entrance would also provide vehicular access to the project site. This entrance would also provide access to boating clubs at Lake Washington. Access to club facilities would not be interrupted by project construction or operation.

PG&E Power Line Extension

The project would consume a significant amount of electricity and would therefore necessitate connection to existing off-site high-voltage overhead power lines located northwest of the Port. A new substation approximately 500-feet northwest of the proposed project site on Port property, would also be required. Interconnection into PG&E's existing transmission system would occur via the Deepwater No. 2 115 kilovolt (kV) high-voltage overhead power line west of the project site. A new 0.7-mile power line would extend from the Deepwater No. 2 115 kV transmission line and run east along Industrial Boulevard to the project site (see Exhibit 2). The new 115 kV power line extension would connect to existing power poles located south of Industrial Boulevard. Existing power line poles would be modified and new power line poles would be constructed between Industrial Boulevard and a new substation on Port property to accommodate the new power line. Project proponents are also considering alternative substation locations.

Probable Environmental Effects of the Proposed Project

The City has reviewed the proposed project and determined that a full-scope, joint EIR/EIS should be prepared. The EIR/EIS will analyze the potentially significant adverse environmental effects of the proposed project, including off-site infrastructure required to support implementation and development of the proposed project. Information regarding the probable environmental effects of the proposed project is provided below as required by CEQA Guidelines Section 15082(a)(1)(C). It is assumed that implementation of the proposed project would result in potential environmental effects in several issue areas, described below; however, the actual effects will be identified during the EIR/EIS process. The EIR/EIS will address direct, indirect, and cumulative effects in all issue areas. The EIR/EIS will include feasible mitigation measures to reduce significant environmental impacts, where appropriate. The following environmental issues will be evaluated in the EIR/EIS:

- Aesthetics (including Light and Glare)
- Air Quality
- Biological Resources
- Climate Change/ Greenhouse Gases
- Cultural Resources
- Geology and Soils, Paleontology
- Hazards and Hazardous Materials
- Hydrology and Water Quality
- Land Use
- Noise and Vibration
- Population, Employment and Housing
- Public Services
- Recreation
- Transportation and Traffic
- Utilities and Service Systems
- Environmental Justice
- Cumulative and Growth Inducing Impacts

Consistent with the requirements of the State CEQA Guidelines Section 15126.6, and Section 1502.14 of the Council on Environmental Quality Regulations implementing NEPA, the EIR/EIS will
